

Kotor

Kotor, city of multi-century sea tradition, lasting history, treasury of culture and arts. In the middle century, Kotor was the biggest nautical and trade center at the Adriatic Sea. It is encircled by city walls (4 km long) with three city doors, behind which there is the treasury of priceless value for the historical, artistic and cultural heritage, what put Kotor under the UNESCO protection in 1979.

The Clock Tower (8th Century), St. Luka's Church (12th Century), St. Tripun's Cathedral (12th Century), Naval Museum, Napoleon's Theatre (19th Century)...., make just some of cultural and historical monuments of exceptional importance. Kotor is also an important naval center today, in which direct environment there are Perast, -a city of multi-century naval tradition, with two small islands of exceptional beauty: St. George and Skrpelj Lady. There is also the small town Risan, with exceptionally preserved roman mosaics, which in ancient times was the residence of the illyric queen Teuta. Very close to it are the picturesque coastal places: Muo, Prcanj, D.Stoliv, D.Morinj, Lepetani...
